

WORKSHOP INFORMATION, RULES & GUIDANCE

Rev 5 14/10/20

Project Frame :

“Food Wave - Empowering Urban Youth for Climate Action” has the aim to create awareness on sustainable ways to consume and produce food for climate change mitigation and activate young people in their cities, in order to enable them to influence institutional decisions, so they can lead us to a sustainable global food system by 2030.

The workshop:

Due to the recent Covid-19 restrictions, the workshop will adopt a hybrid formula: all the applicants coming from France are invited to participate in person, with a maximum of 15 participants. All the other applicants will be able to join the meeting via video conference (Zoom), with a maximum of 35 participants.

The in-person participants must be equipped with their own laptop or tablet, to follow the meeting via Zoom from the venue, that offers free WIFI connection.

For the in-person participants the organization will cover travel, accomodation and food expenses for the entire duration of the workshop (see agenda).

Participants:

The applicants should be aged 18 to 35 and speak fluent English. We encourage diversity and we want to create an open and welcoming environment for all the participants, without any distinction on the basis of gender and sexual orientation, origin, disability, etc.

Chefs, Gastronomists, Nutritionists, Food Procurement Officers, F&B Buyers, Farmers, Fishermen, Foodies, young professionals: anyone work or studying around food and climate change issues is invited to join the debate.

Participants clusters :

The participants are going to be divided into clusters: Activists, Eating City Ambassadors, Delegates and Facilitators.

Facilitators should be based in France in order to participate in person. Activists, Eating City Ambassadors and Delegates can participate via Zoom.

Definitions / Glossary:

Activist: a person who strongly believes in political or social change and takes part in activities to gain the skills for realizing the change.

Eating City Ambassador: a person who participated in one of the 7 summer campuses organized by Eating City.

Delegate (2 per working group): a person who will be elected during the workshop with the rule of simple majority by the participants of each single working group. He/she is going to be in charge of writing the statement and together with the facilitators assemble the final declaration.

Facilitator (1 per working group): “a person ... that makes an action or process easy or easier.” The task is to facilitate the plenary session, working groups and delegates meeting; to make sure all voices are “heard”, ensure there are clearly understood ground rules (e.g. about timekeeping), closing down discussions, and moving the workshop forward. Facilitators will be nominated by the organizer.

Guests:

The workshop will be open for the participation of guests: people of all ages who are interested in the topics discussed (such as politicians, journalists, opinion leaders, partners staff...) that will be allowed to participate and listen to the sessions, but will not have the right to intervene in the debate.

Application must be sent by mail to foodwave@eatingcity.org no later than:

- October 18 for those participating in person
- October 25 for those participating via videoconference.

To apply please fill in the PDF application form attached

Lectures:

On the morning of November 7th, 3 expert readings will help participants focus on the workshop topics and allow them to start the debate and exchange of ideas in the various working groups. The readings do not represent in any way the official position of the Food Wave project but solely are the expression of the thoughts and experience of the selected readers.

Workshop objectives:

The mission of the Campus participants will be delivering a common statement.

This is the first of three workshops within Food Wave Project (2020-2022) that will aim to highlight the impact that the “out-of-home food consumption” sector can provide in the fight against climate change.

The goal is to give voice to the common vision of young people on how this sector can contribute to climate change mitigation, by analysing the impact of food production, distribution, and consumption in the 3 main clusters of this sector:

- Public foodservice (such as school & hospital canteen)
- Traditional restaurant

- Commercial foodservice (such as fast food)

This first Workshop will start from public foodservices and then move on the second year to traditional restaurants, and the third year to commercial foodservices.

The primary purpose of the workshop is to write a joint statement (“The declaration”) addressed to the UK Presidency of COP26 that will take place in Glasgow in November 2021. This declaration will be better defined and extended to a wider base of youths during the work of Pre-COP26 in Milan.

The aim is to create a group of youths who - together with the young ambassadors of Eating City - can carry on a dialogue to create processes of youth empowerment for all the duration of the project.

Again, this workshop represents the very first stage of a journey towards COP 26 in Glasgow.

During this journey towards COP26, there will be some milestone meetings in order to refine the declaration:

- March 2021: update webinar
- July 2021: at the Eating City Summer Campus (2nd workshop of the project)
- September/October 2021: Pre COP Milan
- November 2021: COP26 in Glasgow

Participants and guests will be divided into 3 working groups (Sector sub-clusters):

- Production
- Distribution
- Consumption

Each working Group will work separately in order to assess the impact on its own sub-cluster and write its own part of the declaration, which will be composed of an introduction and the 3 proposals for each sub-cluster.

Pitch

Each participant will be asked to give a pitch (video interview) of 30 seconds by answering pre-formulated questions. The interviews are going to be disseminated through the official Food Wave web platform and social media channels.

The Declaration

The declaration consists of a short introduction and 3 separate sections: Production, Distribution and Consumption.

It will be drawn up respecting a grid that establishes the length of each parts – introduction and impact of the 3 different sector-sub clusters: production, distribution and consumption.

The process of exchange of ideas, reflection and proposals that will lead to the writing of their section by the delegates of each working group will be coordinated and supported by facilitators.
